

Angeline Arsenault
Benefits Manager, Canada
SLB
Calgary, Alberta

In her current role as the benefits manager for SLB, Canada, Angeline manages insured and deferred employee benefits. As such, she is responsible for the development, direction and rollout of employee benefit communications. Angeline has over 18 years of human resources and benefit management experience, working with small and large organizations in the oil and gas industry. During this time, she has managed multiple benefit plans and changes as well as coordinated communication campaigns with varying degrees of complexity. Angeline holds a bachelor of commerce degree in entrepreneurial management and CPHR and PCP designations with the National Payroll Institute. Angeline takes a continuous improvement approach to benefit communications and campaigns, ensuring they constantly evolve with the goal of working towards a higher level of employee benefit literacy, positive experience and action. Every communication campaign is different, and with each experience comes an opportunity to learn and improve. Angeline is keen for others to benefit from her experience and learnings.
