

John P. Dulczak
CEO and Founder
RetireeFirst and LaborFirst
Mount Laurel, New Jersey

John P. Dulczak is the founder and CEO of RetireeFirst and LaborFirst. His vision has pioneered a groundbreaking service model in health care benefits: health navigation and advocacy for Medicare retirees. Under John's leadership, the company has enhanced the health care and retirement experience for union and public sector members and their families. Raised in a family dedicated to organized labor, with his father and grandfather serving as union leaders in Philadelphia, John was inspired to create a company where employees feel valued and supported. RetireeFirst is regularly recognized as one of the "Best Places to Work" in New Jersey, earning the award for three consecutive years. John holds a B.A. degree from Richard Stockton College. He is based in New Jersey, and he serves on the Board of Trustees at Camden Catholic High School and coaches the football team.
